A Trophy.

There is now at the P. F. W. & C. baggage room at the depot, a secession flag which was captured at Garritt's Ford by Orderly Sergeant P. W. Disbrow, of the 14th Ohio Regiment. It is an elegant silk banner, evidently transformed from a loyal American flag to the base design of the rebel standard. It is made wholly of silk, consisting of two broad red stripes, with a white stripe of similar width between, and having a blue field of the usual size of an American flag, with a shield in the centre and surrounded by 34 stars, all of which were more or less perfectly erased excepting seven, which showed that efforts had been made to destroy its original design. Upon the shield on one side is inscribed in gilt letters, "Gate City Guards, from the ladies of Atlanta, 1861," and on the reverse the motto of the State, "In hec signovinces." The whole flag is surrounded by heavy gilt fringe, and is mounted upon a splendid staff with gilt cord and tassels and other rich fittings.

The flag has been sent to the charge of the brother of the captor, of the P. F. W. & C. R. R., who will leave it at the depot until to-morrow afternoon, to give our citizens, who are desirous of seeing a real, genuine secession flag, an opportunity of satisfying their curiosity. It is an elegent affair, and was doubtless valued highly by the company from which it was cap-
